“ I'm very sad to hear of Cecilia's passing. Although we lost touch over the years, as so many people do, my childhood memories with Cecilia remain vivid and are woven into the tapestry of my life. As fate would have it, at a gathering in honor of another fallen classmate, Lisa Cosimo and I were reminiscing about the many times the three of us spent together during elementary school. We talked about playing at Cecilia's house, playing with Barbies, our Beatles crushes, sleepovers, and so many memories of our childhood friendship. Sadly, I didn't even know that she was ill but she has now crossed behind the veil to begin her new adventures. She will be remembered fondly. <3
