“ I first met Dick in September of 1971 on the day I was being interviewed for a probation officer position. He was then County Judge, and I was taken to his chambers by the Probation Director, who told me ahead of time that if Dick didn't like me ["gave me the fish eye"], I wouldn't get the job. I got the job, and every good thing that happened to me for the next 31+ years of my working life started that day. I was honored to work in his courts and to witness the wonderful genesis of Family Counseling, and to be able to confide in him and have his mentorship through his years as District Attorney. He remained a faithful friend even beyond my retirement and always had a good word for me. I will always remember him as a key "leg up" person in my life' and count his friendship and encouragement among my great blessings. Praying for his beautiful soul and wonderful family.
